

SOLENGHIL'S PARENTS MAKE UP IN COURT

Glücks Decide to Live Together Again on Account of Their Boy.

After a pathetic scene in the Jefferson Market Police Court today, in which their golden-haired little boy of three played the principal part, Clarence A. Grant Glück and his wife, who had been arrested last night at the Fifth Avenue Hotel for kidnapping the boy from their home at Erie, Pa., kissed and made up.

They declared they would live together in this city and share the happiness of having the boy between them, while the little fellow danced up and down with glee, holding his father by one hand and his mother by the other. In spite of the reconciliation Glück was obliged to go to a cell in the Jefferson Market Prison, as he was arrested at the request of the Erie authorities, who said a warrant had been issued for him. Glück hastened to Police Headquarters to see what could be done toward getting the warrant at Erie quashed. As soon as it is quashed and he is officially notified of that fact, Magistrate Finn says he will allow Glück to go.

Glück is a wealthy promoter of minerals and railroads. He formerly lived with his wife in Chicago, but on the death of his mother recently went to Erie to live. He is the second husband of Mrs. Glück, who has a son of seventeen by her first husband at Annapolis.

Quarrelled and Separated.
In Erie lives Glück's brother, C. R. Glück, who is a well-to-do merchant sailor. Glück and his wife and boy went to live with this brother when they went to Erie, and the brother invested considerable money in some of the former's schemes. Recently there was a quarrel, in which this brother took a part.

Glück and his wife separated two weeks ago, and then Glück decided to come to New York to see his business partner, Clarence A. Moody. He would not leave the child behind, so he secured it by strategy and brought it here. He went straight to the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where he always stops. In the mean time, on complaint of Mrs. Glück, a warrant had been issued in Erie for his arrest for kidnapping, and Detective Riley took Glück in custody at the Fifth Avenue Hotel last night. The child was sent to the rooms of the Gerry Society.

No Crime to Steal His Son.
Mrs. Glück and her brother-in-law and word that they were coming on at once to press the complaint against Glück, and Glück said he would be ready for them.

As soon as Mrs. Glück and her brother-in-law reached town they went to Police Headquarters, where from there went to the Jefferson Market Court. Magistrate Finn said that he regretted the necessity of holding Glück, because he could not see where any crime had been committed by a father taking his child out of town with him. So Mrs. Glück and her lawyer, Frank Boland, went in the rear room and Glück and his attorney, George Bruce, followed. A minute later the little boy was brought in by a Gerry agent.

Child Acts as Peacemaker.
The little fellow is a very beautiful child, with yellow hair and very dark eyes. His features are perfect. The moment he saw his mother he made a rush for her and said:

"Hello mamma, where have you been?" Before she could answer the boy saw his father and made a rush at him.

"Hello, daddy," he said; "come on over and see mamma."

Glück went over to his wife and said he was sorry that there had been any trouble.

"You know that I wrote you where I was and that you could see my boy any time you wanted to," he said.

Mrs. Glück said that that was true, but that she was not going to be separated from her boy. Then the lad, for one percent by each hand and seemed to agree that Mrs. Glück broke down and began to cry.

Glück put his hand on her shoulder and said he would provide a home for her and the boy. The lawyers strongly advised Mrs. Glück to do this, and she said she would. Then Glück went and his wife, while the little boy shouted with laughter and happiness.

DO MEN'S CLUBS DESTROY HAPPINESS OF THE HOME

Women Who Claim to Know Continue to Answer the Question—One Asserts that Club Life Is the Cause of Nine-Tenths of the Unhappiness in the Home.

LETTERS continue to come to The Evening World from women who are tormented in the proceedings brought against her husband by Miss Alfred Thornton Baker, of Philadelphia, the basis of whose application for divorce is that Mr. Baker preferred to spend his time at his clubs instead of in their home.

Other women who appear to have been neglected in a similar manner write:

Induces Bad Habits.
To the Editor of The Evening World:
A word from a woman who has suffered will surely not be amiss in your paper during the discussion of whether the club destroys the home. One can only answer fully on such a subject from one's own individual experience, and I may most earnestly state that club life is the cause of nine-tenths of the wretchedness in the home.

The club, with its artificial enjoyment, its opportunities for gaming and drink, exerts a most insidious influence over the young man especially. Many a young man with home instincts acquires tastes which lead him further and further away from the home right at the club which he has joined because he imagines it the proper thing to do. Why is it necessary for married men to have club life at all? A man who elects to lead the life of a married man and who establishes a home and leads a trusting woman into it, full of all the hopes of peaceful domesticity, should be a bankrupt at that home.

My life has been ruined through the overbearing attraction for clubs which my husband could not or did not resist. He clung to bachelor habits even after he had become a married man. Does not a man owe something to the woman who has placed her fate in his hands? I for one feel most bitterly against the club and its bad effects on home life. MRS. B. H. Y.

Make the Home Attractive.
To the Editor of The Evening World:
Having read in your last evening's paper the letters of several women concerning the influence of the club as a destroyer of the home, I would like to say just a word or two on the other side. Not in defense of the club, but about the frequent necessity of club life as a haven of refuge for some men, life as a haven of refuge for some men.

There are many women who are as unfit for homelife as some men. By these I do not mean the frivolous butterflies who refuse to accept the responsibilities of married life. I mean the women who make a terror of that sanctuary which should be a retreat and refuge for every husband. These women in question are the sort who will allow their husbands to enjoy a cigar or a pipe after dinner, who won't allow a drop of liquor in the house, and who would perish at the thought of a few ashes falling on their carpets. The husband mustn't smoke or read in the house. It must be kept primly proper for company. He mustn't throw himself on the couch because of the sofa cushions. In short, there are a number of little tyrannies which in themselves are petty, but which, as a whole, make the man dread to step into his home.

Now, I am not an advocate of drinking, smoking, or of clubs, but I do say that if a man who likes occasional drink and a cigar can take it in his own home he will not seek it in the club. A man who drinks a dose and where "good fellowship" means, too often, a quarrel, is not right to blame the clubs too ruthlessly. If women knew how to make the home pleasant their husbands would not be so many clubmen seeking bachelor lives after marriage. D. H. L.

WAR IS BEGUN TO CLOSE FAKE RAINES HOTELS
Committee of Fourteen Preparing Complaints Against 500 Dives.

About five hundred complaints will be filed by the Committee of Fourteen, which has undertaken to free Greater New York from what they call Raines law hotels to distinguish them from legitimate Raines law hotels. The committee hopes to accomplish its aim under the operation of the new Ambler law.

"The law is not self-operative," explained Congressman William S. Bennett, who heads the committee, "and can only be invoked when a citizen makes a complaint. Under the old law the person applying for a hotel license had to swear that his house was fireproof and complied with building laws in other respects, but this was disregarded to a great measure. The fact that perjury was committed in many cases was overlooked. So long as the proper affidavit was on file the excise office had no objection, but was obliged to issue the license. Now the license must issue as before, but on complaint of any citizen to the effect that one building laws have not been complied with the license may be revoked."

"It is not the intention of the committee to make complaints against hotels that are properly conducted, but we do intend to wage a relentless war against the fake hotels that have been erected to the detriment of public morality and have made the Raines law a mockery to the State. We are at work now and will have many complaints ready as soon as the Deputy Commissioner is prepared to deny them."

At the Deputy Excise Commissioner's office at Madison avenue, it was stated that no complaints have so far been received. When inquiry was made about the Brighton Beach Hotel not having received a hotel license it was explained that the proper affidavit had been filed. A regular saloon license was issued instead. Under this license no liquor can be sold there on Sunday.

Don't Want Dunn to GET BIG DAM CONTRACT.

At a meeting of the Aqueduct Commission today J. Waldo Smith, chief engineer, protested against the awarding of the contract to build the Hudson River masonry dam to Barton Dunn, the brother of ex-Sheriff "Tom" Dunn. Mr. Smith and the consulting engineer, W. H. Burr, both declared Dunn's plant was inferior and he had no record of winning any work. They urged the authorities in giving him such a large contract.

Dunn had offered to build the dam for $1,080,000, the lowest bid. Mr. Smith favors the awarding of the contract to McArthur, Bros. and Winston & Co., of Boston, who put in a bid of $1,246,211. The reports were sent to Comptroller Grout for investigation.

NORWAY'S FLAG WAVES AND NEW SWAY BEGINS

As Tricolor Is Unfurled Union with Sweden Is Formally Dissolved.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, June 9.—The Norwegian tricolor was hoisted this morning over Akershus Fort and throughout the country in place of the Union flag.

The substitution was attended by great ceremony at the fort, where the members of the Storting were gathered and 20,000 of the public witnessed the event from points of vantage.

The garrison was paraded in front of the quarters of the commandant of the fort and the commander read the resolution of the Storting dissolving the union with Sweden.

As the clock in the tower of the fort chimed 10 the union flag, which had floated there since 1814, was hauled down, the troops presented arms, the band played the national air "Kons og Norge," and after only a momentary interval the first gun of a national salute boomed, the new flag was broken out and the troops again presented arms.

The people then uncovered and cheered wildly, the band added to the general enthusiasm by playing the popular air, "Yes, We Love This Country."

First one and then another took up the words of the song, until the whole crowd joined in, after which round after round of cheering again greeted the flag.

Three cheers were next given for the fatherland and the singing of the national anthem concluded the ceremony.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 9.—Crown Prince Gustaf on his return from Berlin today was met by the royal family, the Ministers and a large crowd of people who cheered him enthusiastically. The city is decorated with flags.

King Oscar Takes Action.

King Oscar decided at a meeting of the Council of State today to summon the Riksdag for an extraordinary session June 20. The Crown Prince was present at the sitting which had before it the resolution of the Norwegian Storting, which the Premier denounced as revolutionary.

The resignations of the Ministers of Sweden and Norway at Copenhagen, Sweden and Madrid were tendered by telegraph and accepted.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 9.—The members of the Parliamentary Opposition party are sending an address to the Norwegian Storting wishing it success in any constitutional fight and saying that Hungary, encouraged by the example of Norway, will fight with redoubled strength to secure her national rights.

WOMAN GIVES FRESH MASHER A THRASHING

Took a Wallop Instead of a Walk in Answer to His Invitation.

Mrs. Mary Grossman, of No. 353 Wythe avenue, Williamsburg, appeared in Lee Avenue Court today as complainant against Joseph Katz, who says he is a second-hand clothes dealer, of No. 337 Third avenue, this borough. Katz looked as though he'd been handled by a cyclone. Mrs. Grossman wore a look of grim determination.

It seems that last night, at the corner of South First street and Wythe avenue, Katz approached Mrs. Grossman and invited her to take a walk. She replied by slapping his face. He started to run and Mrs. Grossman caught him two blocks away. She tripped him up and then began to pummel him. Katz got away again, but Mrs. Grossman pursued him to the park at the Williamsburg Bridge approach and there pummeled him some more.

A crowd gathered to cheer her on, and a lively fight was in progress when Policeman Royal came up and arrested both man and woman. Mrs. Grossman was immediately freed when she explained the matter, but Katz was locked up.

Magistrate Furlong kept Katz and told him he'd give him six months if he ever got him in his court again.
